

4 Behavior Styles That Can DRAMATICALLY Improve Workplace (US-JPN) Communication!

JASCO is proudly presenting a business seminar to revitalize and synergize dynamics and interactions in the workplace. This seminar has been a vital part of core management training program for many years at Honda companies throughout North America. Highly sought after by other multi-national companies such as Toyota, Sanyo and Nike, we are pleased to have Ms. See facilitating the seminar again in 2010. “4 Behavior Styles of People” (DiSC Profile) will explain reasons why people act in a certain way and give you the ability to slightly modify your approach to different people for much better results. This is a rare opportunity for those who are challenged with JPN-US cultural differences, or those who wish to dramatically improve relationships with customers. There are both Japanese and English language options. Please plan to come join us for the first time or for a second time with your colleagues on November 5, 2010!

Date & Time	November 5, 2010 (F) ①8:00-13:00 Basic Course - Introduction of DiSC Model. ②13:30-18:30 . Application Course-- Exercises & Discussion that can be immediately applied to your work place situations. Plan to join in the networking opportunity at the end.

- Sharing our primary and secondary behavioral traits with one another gave each of us insights into leadership styles that enhanced communication on a daily basis. — Paul Grubb, Vice President, Administration, YUSA Corporation.
- I learned in the DiSC Seminar that most communication problems in an international organization lie not in a lack of linguistic skills but in a lack of ambition to know each other. — Kozo Hongo, Deloitte & Touche LLP.
- Enriching. It really helps you be aware of how you are received by other personalities. It is a nice measure of how to reach out to others in a professional and effective way — Isozaki, Kozue.
- DiSC Profile provides a powerfully unique viewpoint from which to frame interactions with people, providing a better understanding of those you come in contact with. — Isao L. Shoji, Financial Advisor, Ameriprise Financial.

Meggie See believes that “An organization grows, when its people grow.” She is a Consulting Partner at The Ken Blanchard Companies© since 2000 and has focused on human development as her life work. She is the only Japanese Consulting Partner at Blanchard and is actively involved in leadership training, communication training, and organization culture-training in both Japanese and English with many multi-national companies. In addition to the various leadership related training at The Ken Blanchard Companies©, Meggie also facilitates culture awareness training through her own company, J. Hammock & Associates, LLC. Her dynamic training sessions focus on how people gain understanding of one another despite cultural difference and language barriers.
